

Permissions Matrix

We've created an Excel file to help you assign permissions to your various groups of users. (See Permissions Overview for more information on permissions.)

The Default Groups tab provides you with our default user groups and permissions settings. This is for your reference so you have a record of our default settings. This is locked from editing.

The Custom Groups tab is for you to edit to make decisions and document your group permissions settings. You can change the names of each user groups, add or delete groups, and select different levels of access from the dropdown menus.

The Users tab allows you to list all of your prospective users in one place, and to assign them to permissions groups for documentation or planning purposes.
