All of the world's major donors have agreed to publish their data in the International Aid Transparency Initiative (IATI) format, and in turn many of them require grantees and recipients to report back to them in IATI format. DevResults supports one-click exporting of data in the IATI format. The XML file that's generated can be published to the IATI Repository, used for reporting to funders, or shared with other organizations.

To get set up with IATI exports, your site administrator will need to:

- Edit Program Settings to define your IATI organization information
- Link your existing Status Options to a relevant IATI status
- Link your existing Partner Types to relevant IATI Organization roles
- Review configuration of activities and geographies to ensure they have all required IATI fields completed

Once those steps are complete, you can generate an export from any Activity Reporting Period or for multiple activities in a reporting period.

Configuring your Site for IATI Exports

Program Settings Organization Configuration

Before completing these steps, be sure you have an IATI Organisation Identifier. This is a combination of the namespace code and the base identifier issued by the registry. If you're unsure of your IATI organisation identifier, check with the registry.

Someone with View and Edit permissions on Program Settings will need to make the initial configuration choices for your site's IATI exports. To do so, go to Administration > Program Settings. On the Program Settings page, complete the IATI section:

Review Activity and Geography Fields

In addition to configuring the site overall, the IATI standard requires some fields which DevResults considers optional. For the IATI exports to generate properly, you'll need to make sure these fields are populated:

Activity Context or Activity Objectives (Activity Overview tab): IATI requires either a "General" Activity Description or "Objectives" in the Activity Description. The DevResults export will populate Activity Context into the General type and Activity Objectives into the Objectives type of the IATI Activity Description.

Administrative Division Code (Administrative Division Details): The IATI standard requires that all geographies be identified with a code called @ref . For Administrative Divisions, we leverage the Code field on the Administrative Division details page. For countries, reference the IATI CountryList for the two-letter codes. For subnational boundaries, reference the geographic list and conventions that make the most sense for your site from here: http://iatistandard.org/202/codelists/GeographicVocabulary/ (if we created your shapes for you, we used GADM shapes for subnational boundaries).
